ACKNOWLEDGMENTS:

The 2011 Intertext staff would like to thank the Writing Program community for their support of this publication, especially the instructors who encouraged their students to submit their work and the writers who submitted their work. We are very thankful to the I-Learn Grant, the innovative learning program in the College of Arts and Sciences, for funding this publication.

Thank you to senior Writing and Rhetorical Studies Major and featured writer Michelle Giordano for providing a fresh look and thorough review during our final copy-editing.

Thank you to TJ Geiger and Robert M. Colley for serving as judges for the Louise Phelps Awards.

Special thanks to our advisor, Nancy Wright, who provided invaluable support while consistently reminding us that the magazine was ours alone to create.

LOUISE PHELPS AWARDS

The Louise Wetherbee Phelps Awards recognize excellence in the Writing Program studios. The award includes a prize for $50 for top submissions from lower and upper division writing classes. All Intertext authors are considered for this award.

This year's winners wrote pieces that were engaging, demonstrated a sense of purpose, presented clear arguments, and spoke from a unique voice.

Congratulations to this year's winners:

Upper division writing class:
Leap of Faith by Kevin Dicciani

Lower division writing class:
Ghost of Home by Veronica Boehm

STAFF BIOS

shantébooker is a Writing and Rhetoric major with a minor in Women & Gender Studies. She is from New York City and absolutely loves to edit!

meghandonohue is a junior Writing and Rhetoric major and Philosophy minor. Born in Hanover, New Hampshire (Live Free or Die!) and raised in Norwich, Vermont (the Green Mountain State), she enjoys running track and field for the University (when she is not injured) and communicating ideas via the World Wide Web.

jamesmarkowitz is a junior Writing and Rhetoric major and Marketing minor from Boca Raton, Florida. He enjoys hip-hop, the beach, sandwiches, and Nikes.

eugenepark is originally from Lexington, MA and is a junior with a dual major in European History and Writing and Rhetoric. In his free time he likes to play lacrosse, run and read.

saraponticelli is a senior Communication and Rhetorical Studies and Writing and Rhetoric double major from Manchester, Connecticut. She is excited to apply all that she has learned through her years at Syracuse after graduation and is grateful for the opportunity to work on this spring's Intertext edition.

troysoolomon is a senior Writing and Rhetoric major from Fort Lauderdale, Florida. After graduation he hopes to attend graduate school and earn his Masters in Fine Arts with a focus in Film Production.

danawan is currently a senior in the College of Arts and Sciences, pursuing a career in the magazine industry. Born and raised in New York City, Wan is excited to graduate this upcoming May and return to the Big Apple. She enjoys traveling, spending time with her friends, and finding good eats.

benjaminzender is a senior Writing and Rhetoric major and an LGBT Studies minor who first attended college in Indiana, Pennsylvania almost a decade ago. He hopes to one day move to New York City so he can pursue a life of people watching, maybe with the help of an advanced degree in the humanities.

ahmedal-salem is a senior Finance and Entrepreneurship major from Riyadh, Saudi Arabia. He has dreams of starting his own business and having one of his screenplays get turned into a movie. Next year he is planning to attend film school and apply to law school directly afterwards.

veronica Boehm is a senior History and Writing and Rhetoric dual major from Melbourne, Florida. She seemingly enjoys the activities of a cat lady: making collages, completing 1,000 piece puzzles, and sipping tea while admiring the Syracuse snow.

kevin Dicciani is a senior Writing and Rhetoric major from The City of Brotherly Love, Philadelphia. He enjoys writing, playing golf, reading, coffee, cheesesteaks, The Rolling Stones, and, on rare occasions, having a cold beer.

allie Dikowich is a junior dual major in Television, Radio and Film and Writing and Rhetoric. In her spare time she enjoys collecting sneakers, writing, listening to music and telling terrible jokes. Hailing from Long Island, she is passionate about her writing, creativity and good pizza, and has gained experience as an intern with MTV and Conan.

michelle Giordano is a senior dual major in Writing and Rhetoric and the Department of Communication and Rhetorical Studies. Beginning in the fall of 2011, Giordano will be pursuing a

M.A. in Communication and Rhetorical Studies. She has a specialized interest in feminist theory and rhetoric and gender studies. She enjoys reading almost anything she can get her hands on, spending time with her daughters, and—of course—her coffee!

jessica Lam is a freshman majoring in Inclusive Elementary and Special Education. She was born and raised in the city that never sleeps, New York City! She hopes to one day return to the city to teach in one of the local elementary schools. Music feeds her soul and writing is one of the best ways she knows to express herself. Her other interests include photography, volleyball, and softball.

kanika Teng is a senior Writing and Rhetoric major from Falls Church, Virginia. She loves listening to music, watching sports and lurking on social media sites. Next year she plans to attend Syracuse University's School of Information Studies for graduate school.

sapir Vangruber recently graduated early in December with Honors and a double major in Biology and Spanish. She is from Dallas, Texas, and enjoys traveling, reading, and spending time with family and friends. Next year she hopes to attend medical school.
