

meet the editors

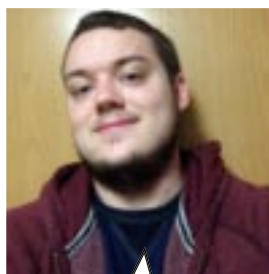

From reviewing manuscripts to laying out the pages, this team of editors had the honor of putting together this issue for you!

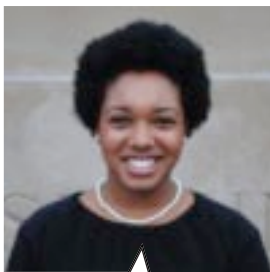

David Swenton is a senior Writing and Rhetoric and Political Science double major, as well as a drum major of the SU Marching Band. Coming from the small town of Owego, New York, David is passionate about American politics, music, skiing, and writing. He plans on attending law school this coming fall.

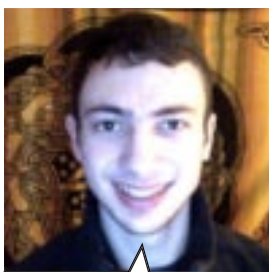

Mavis Lee is a sophomore studying Writing and Rhetoric and English and Textual Studies. She's originally from Hong Kong. In her spare time, Mavis can be found experimenting with Polaroid cameras, brain vomiting on her journal, and reading anything within arm's length.

Eric Weyand is a junior Writing and Rhetoric major and Political Science minor. Born in New Jersey, but raised in the small New York town of Hornell, he is a deep epistemological thinker skilled in the artistry of written word and argumentation. Eric yearns to attend law school.

Originally from Paterson, NJ, Shanelle Drakeford is a senior Writing and Rhetoric major. Upon graduation, she plans to take on New York City and dive head first into the field of magazine journalism. She dedicates her free time to her blog, a small host of internships, and dancing on campus.

Alexander Nelson is a senior Writing and Rhetoric major and a History minor with a passion for poetry and electronic music. Born and raised in Syracuse, he is more than excited to be starting his career with IBM in Westchester, NY following graduation this May.

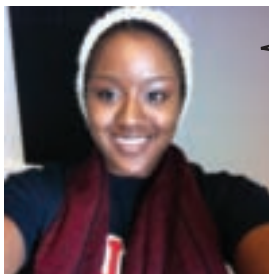

Katie Tull is a dual Writing and Rhetoric and English and Textual Studies major. A senior from Atlanta, she spends her summers with her beloved pit-mix Syd Vicious and as many books as she can consume. Katie aspires to work in the publishing industry.

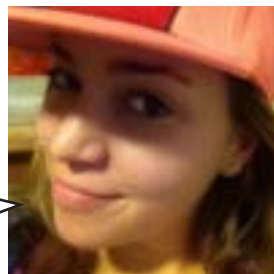

André Douglas is a junior Writing and Rhetoric major and an English minor. Born and raised in Brooklyn, NY, he hopes to work in publishing, and his dream is to one day be a published author. He will spend his summer studying abroad in Madrid through SU's Study Abroad program.

Johnathan McClintick is a junior Writing and Rhetoric and English and Textual Studies major. He was born and raised in Oklahoma City, Oklahoma before living a year in Myrtle Beach, South Carolina. He is the Arts and Entertainment and Poetry Editor for The OutCrowd.

Amber Watson is a junior Writing and Rhetoric and Political Science dual major. She is from Los Angeles, but splits her time traveling between L.A., Atlanta, and Chicago.

Morgan Conover is a Writing and Rhetoric major with a Global Security Studies minor. A sophomore from the suburbs of Washington, D.C., she loves writing, going to the beach, listening to Beyoncé, and having meaningful conversations with people.

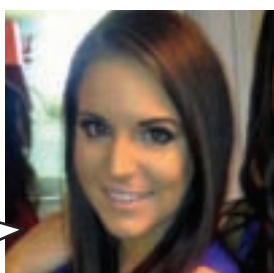

Brianna Edgerley-Dallal is a senior splitting her studies between Entrepreneurship, Retail Management, and Writing and Rhetoric, with a minor in Anthropology. Originally from New Jersey, she grew up in Texas and will be moving to Westchester, NY to begin a career as a proposal writer at IBM after graduation.

Tevion Johnson is a senior Writing and Rhetoric major and a Political Science minor. He hails from Brooklyn, NY, where he spends most summers playing basketball and baseball. He writes for multiple sports websites and hopes to one day create his own site about all things basketball.

Jessica Palomo is a senior History major and Writing and Rhetoric minor. LA native and food truck enthusiast, she enjoys traveling and hopes to move to Madrid later this year to work as an English teacher.

Danielle Martin is a junior studying Writing and Rhetoric, aspiring to be a magazine fashion editor and director. She spends her free time eating cronuts in New York City and working on photo shoots as an Associate Fashion Editor at Zipped Magazine. This summer she will be interning in the fashion closet of Harper's BAZAAR.
