

EDITORS

Maryann Akinboyewa is a senior Writing & Rhetoric and Marketing Management major. She is passionate about feminism, travel, and writing. After graduation, she plans to work in the field of digital media and pursue her entrepreneurial goals with her first start-up, "Be Kind More Confident," a women's wellness brand that promotes self-esteem and confidence in women everywhere.

Maura Buckley is a senior Writing & Rhetoric and English & Textual Studies major with minors in Strategic Management and Philosophy. In her free time, she is a member of the SU dance troupe the Couture Dolls, works at the Skytop ropes course, and reads way too much science fiction. A voracious Patriots fan, this five-foot Bostonian also enjoys country music, dive bar hunting, Wal-Mart, and outdoor adventures.

Emily Goldberg is a senior Writing & Rhetoric major with a minor in Information Technology. From the small town of Croton-on-Hudson, just outside of New York City, she is looking to go into publishing or communications. She loves her dogs more than most people, and has an obsession with traveling, good grammar, and coffee.

Caleigh Gran is a junior majoring in both Writing & Rhetoric and Public Health from Phillipsburg, New Jersey. She also writes and edits for SU's What the Health magazine. On the rare occasion that she has free time, she enjoys reading, exploring, and trying new things. She would love to work in publishing one day.

JayeMichelle Harris is a sophomore majoring in both Magazine Journalism and Writing & Rhetoric, and minoring in French & Francophone Studies. She has spent most of her life in Europe and speaks fluent French. Her hobbies include dancing and writing. She is involved in her sorority, Alpha Xi Delta, and is the New Initiatives Chair for the European Student Association. She would like to go into book and magazine publishing in the future.

Victoria Luyckx is a senior Writing & Rhetoric major from Long Island, New York. Living vicariously through Joanna Coles, she hopes to be an editor for Cosmopolitan magazine one day. For now, she remains a Converse fanatic, magazine junkie, and world traveler.

Annemarie Menna is a senior Anthropology major with a minor in Writing & Rhetoric. Born and raised in the outskirts of Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, she is currently an editor at 360 Degrees magazine. She spends her free time writing, listening to Celtic music, and hiding out in used bookstores.

Chamelia Moore is a senior majoring in Writing & Rhetoric and minoring in Visual Culture. Her current plans after graduation consist of entering the publishing or advertising industries as an editor or copywriter or in any position that will allow her to utilize what she's learned through the Writing Program. She is looking forward to the next stage in life and is excited to make the most out of her final year at SU.

Gilmarie Perea-Ruiz is a senior Writing & Rhetoric major and a Public Communications Studies minor. Born and raised in sunny Puerto Rico, she chose SU to challenge herself and expand her knowledge. She enjoys reading and writing as well as watching foreign films. After spending a semester interning and studying in London, she hopes to pursue her life there and do a master's in fashion journalism.

T.J. Tree is a senior pursuing B.A. degrees in Writing & Rhetoric and International Relations. T.J. is a member of the Sigma Iota Rho International Affairs Honor Society and the Boxing Club, and he works part-time as a tutor for student athletes. T.J. hopes to earn a Fulbright scholarship to teach English in Turkey next school year.